THIS WEEK'S PROGRAM

Sam Wilbanks – US Forest Service:
My Experiences Working Hurricanes Rita and Katrina

Hurricane Katrina was the costliest and one of the deadliest hurricanes in the history of the United States and existed late in August during the 2005 Atlantic hurricane season. It was the sixth-strongest Atlantic hurricane ever recorded and the third-strongest landfalling U.S. hurricane ever recorded. Katrina had catastrophic effects on the city of New Orleans, Louisiana, and its sheer size devastated the Gulf Coast over 100 miles (160 km) away from its center; it is possible that Katrina was the largest hurricane of its strength to approach the United States in recorded history.

Katrina was the eleventh named storm, fifth hurricane, third major hurricane, and second Category 5 hurricane of the 2005 Atlantic season. It formed over the Bahamas on August 23, 2005, and crossed southern Florida as a moderate Category 1 hurricane before strengthening rapidly in the Gulf of Mexico and becoming one of the strongest hurricanes ever recorded in the Gulf. The storm weakened considerably before making its second landfall as a Category 3 storm on the morning of August 29 in southeast Louisiana.
